

Late payments – update of EU rules

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

Introduction

This consultation is part of the European Commission preparation for the revision of the Late Payment Directive (Directive 2011/7/EU). The directive lays down obligations concerning payment terms in commercial transactions between businesses (B2B) or between public authorities and businesses (G2B).

In general, payment terms shall not exceed 30 days. In limited cases, some public authorities can pay their suppliers within a maximum of 60 days. In commercial transactions between businesses payment terms of more than 60 days can be negotiated as long as they are not 'grossly unfair' to the creditor. The directive also lays down provisions on late payment interest and compensation. These include a flat rate compensation of at least EUR 40 per invoice, to which the creditor is entitled when the payment is received later than the deadline agreed in the contractual or legal payment term

For the purposes of this questionnaire:

- Payment term refers to the time limit for payment agreed in the contract or any other form of agreement between the parties (this can be expressed in days or months, for example).
- Payment delay is the time that exceeds the payment term.
- Payment period is the sum of the payment term and payment delay.

You can find more information at: https://single-market-economy.ec.europa.eu/smes/sme-strategy/late-payment-directive_en

This consultation aims to collect information on the following aspects of late payments:

- the main features of payment terms used by businesses;
- interested parties' experiences of unfair payment practices;
- interested parties' views on and experiences of the handling of disputes about payment delays;
- interested parties' views on possible policy measures to combat late payments;
- interested parties' views on the possible impact of policy measures to combat late payments;
- the impact of late payments on interested parties.

Part 1 - General questions

Late payments account for one in four bankruptcies in the EU. Fewer than 40% of commercial transactions between businesses are paid on time. The European Commission is seeking your views about how to combat this problem.

 Question 1

How has the EU Late Payment Directive contributed to more timely payments in commercial transactions since 2011?

- ☐ Very positively
- ☒ Somewhat positively
- ☐ Neutrally
- ☐ Rather negatively
- ☐ Very negatively

 Question 2

What causes late payment?

Please tick all the applicable answers

- ☒ Paying late is a form of financing at no cost to the debtor
- ☒ Lack of money to pay own suppliers
- ☐ Paying on time is not incentivised/rewarded

- ☒ Late payments are a vicious circle (a company is paid late and then pays late in return)
- ☐ Companies are not aware of the specific rules on payments
- ☐ Existing rules are not clear
- ☒ Existing rules are not properly enforced
- ☒ Small companies have to accept terms set by bigger players, otherwise they lose their clients
- ☐ Lack of access to financial training /credit management tools
- ☐ Lack of access to information about the payment discipline of your client (e.g. credit checks)
- ☐ Other reason

Question 3

How would you rate the clarity of the following provisions of the EU directive and, therefore, how they are applied in practice?

	Very clear	Rather clear	Rather unclear	Very unclear	Don't know
* Provisions on the terms 'unfair' or 'grossly unfair'	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
* Provisions on payment terms, particularly in business to business (B2B) transactions	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>

* Provisions on the EUR 40 compensation fee to recuperate internal costs	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>

* Question 4

Currently, the EU directive sets the maximum payment terms for public authorities at 30 days or, in very exceptional circumstances, at 60 days.

Businesses must pay their invoices within 60 days unless they expressly agree otherwise, and provided it is not 'grossly unfair'.

What is your opinion of the payment terms between businesses (B2B)?

- ☐ Should remain unchanged
- ☐ Should be capped at 30 days without exceptions - for all B2B transactions
- ☐ Should be capped at 60 days without exceptions – for all B2B transactions
- ☒ Should be capped at 30 days for payments from large companies to SMEs only, not between SMEs

- ☐ Should be capped at 60 days for payments from large companies to SMEs only, not between SMEs
- ☐ Should allow for specific payment terms for certain sectors
- ☐ Other opinion

* Putting in place the means for alternative dispute resolution, such as arbitration and mediation, and facilitating SMEs' access to them	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>

Question 5d proposes removing barriers to factoring (including e-factoring). We would like the European Commission to consider the option of removing barriers to prohibition of pledging too. Pledge prohibitions are problematic to SMEs, as they cannot use outstanding claims as collateral to obtain a loan. By removing this prohibition, businesses gain more room to finance their activities.

This question seeks your views on introducing measures to protect SMEs (especially self-employed people and micro and small businesses) from the risk of late payments and on providing relief. What kind of measures should be considered?

Please tick all the options that you find appropriate

- ☒ In the case of uncontested invoices, public authorities should pay micro and small enterprises and self-employed people in less than 30 days.

- ☒ Public authorities should put in place mechanisms to verify that main contractors are complying with the rules on prompt payment when paying subcontractors, in particular when a subcontractor is an SME.
- ☐ Public authorities should offset an SME' tax, and social security debts against any outstanding amounts that they owe to SMEs because of late payment
- ☐ Other
